A demolition permit from Skagit County is required prior to the demolition or relocation of any building, structure, or manufactured home.¹ Upon issuance of this permit, the Department will provide any required notifications to the Health Department and provide a copy of this permit to the Assessor so that the property value may be adjusted.

If you are doing demolition simultaneous with construction of a new structure, you don't need a demolition permit separate from the building permit for the new structure.

If you are removing an underground fuel tank, you need a tank removal permit.

Demolition

What work are you proposing?

- structure (of any type) to be demolished on site. Describe structure to be demolished:

 - If a mobile home is destroyed, file for removal from the tax rolls with the Skagit County Treasurer.
- home removal, including mobile homes (without demolition). Notes:
 - Before moving a mobile home, file a tax certificate with the Skagit County Treasurer and obtain a movement decal.
 - Any vehicle over 8'6" wide or over 105,000 lbs gross vehicle weight requires an oversize/overweight vehicle permit from Skagit County Public Works and, if traveling on a state highway, an oversize/overweight permit from WSDOT.

Attach a site plan showing utilities serving the structure, and how they will be properly abandoned or capped, including:²

- water supply
- sewage disposal
- electric service
- gas supply (natural or propane)

How will you dispose of the debris? Burning construction and demolition debris is prohibited by WAC 173-425-050.

- dumpster/haul to trash
- recycle (see www.skagitcounty.net/cdl for resources)

Important Notes

- Call for an inspection (360-416-1330) after demolition is complete and utilities are properly abandoned.
- SCC Chapter 12.18 requires that solid waste generated or collected in Skagit County be delivered to a designated disposal site within the County. Certain exceptions exist, such as for designated recyclable materials delivered to a recycling or composting facility, and for wastes that are not accepted at the designated disposal sites.
- You must submit a demolition notification to Northwest Clean Air Agency prior to removal of any structure greater than 120 square feet. A certified asbestos survey must be conducted on any property that is not "obviously asbestos free" (constructed entirely of wood or metal). Failure to do so may result in significant fines. See www.nwcleanairwa.gov/forms/nwcaa-asbestos-removal-or-demolition/
- State law may require you to obtain an asbestos report before demolition and to provide information to contractors about any asbestos. See www.lni.wa.gov/TradesLicensing/LicensingReq/Asbestos/
- Replacement structures may be exempt from impact fees if a permit is issued within one year of demolition.³
