

THE JOURNAL

NOVEMBER 16, 1906

SKAGIT RIVER OUT OF ITS BANKS

Water In Valley Highest Known for Years—Burlington High and Dry—
Very Little Damage

On Thursday evening the Skagit river was the highest known for years. Some damage was done at various points on the river. West Mt, Vernon was flooded, but with very light damage. The west span of the bridge at that place was swept away. The draw on the railroad bridge was slightly damaged by a heavy drift but will soon be repaired. No water came within the corporate limits of Burlington except in the slough in the east part of town, and no damage was done.