

The Skagit County Sheriff's Office Volunteer Search and Rescue (SAR) Program provides the county with the presence of highly trained and skilled members to assist in the location and rescue of missing and lost individuals who may be injured or in dangerous conditions and are unable to rescue themselves. Rescues and searches occur from the salt water of Puget Sound to the backcountry of the North Cascade Mountain Range.

The Skagit County Search and Rescue Program is directed under the Skagit County Sheriff's Office.

Registration Packet

The Skagit County Emergency Worker Program is provided for by State Law RCW 38.52 and administered by local jurisdictions in Washington State. Our Emergency Workers provide valuable services to our community through their training, knowledge, skills and dedication. They are often placed in situations that require good judgment and high levels of responsibility. Our Emergency Workers are crucial during emergencies or disasters and will be provided with orientation, training and other materials as required for specific volunteer needs. Emergency workers are provided liability, medical, and personal property coverage as well as reimbursement for some incidental expenses while deployed on state-approved incidents and training events.

Skagit County Emergency Workers are affiliated with one of the following volunteer groups. Please check which group you are interested in joining. Please note that each group has a different application and onboarding process.

WAC 118-04-200 Personal Responsibilities of Emergency Workers

(1) Emergency workers shall be responsible to certify to the authorized officials registering them and using their services that they are aware of and will comply with all applicable responsibilities and requirements set forth in these rules.

(a) Emergency workers have the responsibility to notify the on-scene authorized official if they have been using any medical prescription or other drug that has the potential to render them impaired, unfit, or unable to carry out their emergency assignment.

(b) Participation by emergency workers in any mission, training event, or other authorized activity while under the influence of or while using narcotics or any illegal controlled substance is prohibited.

(c) Participation by emergency workers in any mission, training event, or other authorized activity while under the influence of alcohol is prohibited.

(d) Emergency workers participating in any mission, training event, or other authorized activity shall possess a valid operator's license if they are assigned to operate vehicles, vessels, or aircraft during the mission unless specifically directed otherwise by an authorized official in accordance with RCW 38.52.180. All emergency workers driving vehicles to or from a mission must possess a valid driver's license and required insurance.

(e) Use of private vehicles, vessels, boats, or aircraft by emergency workers in any mission, training event, or other authorized activity without liability insurance required by chapter 46.29 RCW is prohibited unless specifically directed otherwise by an authorized official in accordance with RCW - 38.52.180.

(f) Emergency workers shall adhere to all applicable traffic regulations during any mission, training event, or other authorized activity. This provision does not apply to individuals who have completed the emergency vehicle operator course or the emergency vehicle accident prevention course and who are duly authorized under state law to use special driving skills and equipment and who do so at the direction of an authorized official.

(2) Emergency workers have the responsibility to comply with all other requirements as determined by the authorized official using their services.

(3) When reporting to the scene, emergency workers have the responsibility to inform the on-scene authorized official whether they are mentally and physically fit for their assigned duties. Emergency workers reporting as not fit for currently assigned duties may request a less demanding assignment that is appropriate to their current capabilities.

(4) Emergency workers have the responsibility to check in with the appropriate on-scene official and to complete all required recordkeeping and reporting.

I have read the above WAC (118-04-200) – Personal responsibilities of emergency workers.

FEMA Course Requirements

All registered Emergency Worker volunteers are required to complete FEMA's ICS-100 and ICS-700 level trainings to gain an introductory understanding of the Incident Command System and National Incident Management Systems. These two systems are widely used to provide a coordinated and organized approach to emergency response.

Steps to complete FEMA Course Requirements:

- Obtain a FEMA Student Identification (SID) number to take the Final Exams
- Complete the required FEMA ICS-100 and ICS-700 courses

If you already have a FEMA SID number:

- Go to <https://cdp.dhs.gov/FEMASID/>
- Click on "Log in to FEMA SID" to update any of your profile information.
 - If you forgot your FEMA SID
 - Go to <https://cdp.dhs.gov/FEMASID/>
 - Click on the "Forgot your FEMA SID"
- You will be required to enter your SID number to take the final exam for each course.

If you do not have a FEMA SID number:

- Go to <https://cdp.dhs.gov/FEMASID/>
- Click on the "Register for a FEMA SID"
- Complete the information requested. FEMA will then send you your assigned SID number.
- You will be required to enter your SID number to take the final exam for each course.

FEMA Course Links:

ICS 100.c: Introduction to the Incident Command System (ICS)

CS 700.b: An Introduction to the National Incident Management System (NIMS)

<https://training.fema.gov/is/courseoverview.aspx?code=IS-700.b>

Complete both courses and take their respective final exams. You can retake each exam as many times as you need in order to pass the course and get your certificate. If you need further assistance with retrieving FEMA ICS course certificates, please contact independent.study@fema.dsh.gov.

Please save a copy of your certificates and provide to DEM to document your completion of the required courses.

Thank you for your time and dedication in completing the above courses to learn the Incident Command System (ICS) and the National Incident Management System (NIMS), and know more of what to expect when you are asked to assist in a drill or real emergency.
